CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREASURE

By DONALD GEORGE

JOHN WILLIAMS REYNOLDS, attorney, was not the kind of man to waste words or time. For a consultation alone he usually charged well into three figures. He was tall, haughty, and fierce when angered.

"There is nothing difficult about the offer, Professor Simpson," he said. "And I see no reason why you are delaying in giving me your answer in the affirmative. My client, Ralph Hendsely, is willing to pay you the sum of $1,000. All you have to do is to be present at the gardener's cottage on his Long Island estate tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. A car will call for you and bring you back."

The small middle aged man with a flowing moustache, to whom those words were addressed, sighed before answering. "It is true that I am a man of science and do not have much contact with the outside world. Your client wishes me to be present at a scientific demonstration. You will not tell me its nature. But for my opinion I am to receive a large fee. I must judge whether or not the demonstration is authentic or a fake. Mr. Hendsely is well known as a business man. Unless you tell me what is behind the demonstration I will not accept your offer."

The attorney was about to lose his temper as he had done on similar occasions when handling what he considered "obstinate people." But his orders were to bring the professor to Long Island at any cost. So he managed to exercise control.

"A month ago a man calling himself Charles Wendell came to my client. Now if you know anything about American history, then you must know the legends connected with Mr. Wendell's property. It is said that Captain Kidd buried his pirate loot somewhere on this property. In the past there have been searches of all kinds made on the land. Ten years ago my client made up his mind there was no such pirate loot buried there. He has refused all requests for permission to look for it. Then Mr. Wendell came into the picture. He handed my client the sum of $25,000 for permission to look for the treasure. In addition he agreed to give ten percent of the treasure to my client. I okayed the agreement. Frankly speaking, it seemed like a brain storm. Tomorrow morning he will show us a scientific device which can go back into the past and spot Captain Kidd burying the treasure. Now you know why I want you to be present."

Professor Herbert Simpson smiled. "For such a service and entertainment at the same time I am going to receive $1,000. You may tell your client to send the car for me. A device to go back into the past? There's a catch in it somewhere and I am going to spot it. Until tomorrow, then. Now, if you will excuse me, I have some important things to do. Must feed my goldfish and cat. Good afternoon."

A Rolls-Royce pulled up to a stone cottage at the end of the shore. The uniformed chauffeur opened the door of the car and spoke, "This is the place, sir. They are waiting for you inside."

Professor Simpson entered a large room which seemed to be filled with a variety of radio-television equipment. Mr. Reynolds came right up to him. "First I would like you to meet my client." Mr. Hendsely, a stout, bald, middle-aged man, took the professor's hand. "Now that you are here we can begin the demonstration. You sit up front with me. There are reporters from various newspapers present." Then a man with a short black beard appeared. He was about six feet in height and solidly built. "Mr. Wendell meet Professor Simpson." The introduction taken care of, Mr. Wendell walked to the front of the room and began his talk.

"You are now going to witness a scientific demonstration that will change the entire world. It will give us correct concepts of history. My invention will enable us to look back into the past and see any event as it actually happened. Whether it be Mark Anthony and Cleopatra or Napoleon at Waterloo, we will be able to have in front of our eyes the event performed for us. You may well ask me, How is this possible? It is really very simple. Every school child now understands that you can see light from a star even if the star has long since vanished. The light rays take a long time to reach earth. When an event on earth takes place it gives off light rays. Centuries later those rays may reach various planets in the universe. Now my invention bends back those light rays and projects them on what looks like a television screen. So, gentlemen, if you are ready, we can start."

There was silence as Mr. Wendell went over to the controls of a large machine. He manipulated them for a few minutes and then turned to his eager audience.

"I have spent more than a hundred thousand dollars on this machine," he explained. At present it can produce only one scene in the past. I need millions more to perfect it. Hence you can see the importance of finding out where Captain Kidd hid his treasure. With the money I find, less the amount I must pay to the owner of the land, I shall be many times a millionaire. Gentlemen, you may now watch the screen."

All eyes in the room turned to the screen. The light flickered and then several figures appeared to be taking form. Finally an entire clear scene was visible. Captain Kidd himself was landing from a rowboat. Several of his men took a huge chest from the boat. The boat was anchored in a cove. The spellbound audience watched Captain Kidd measure two hundred paces from the cove in a south-eastern direction. Then his men dug a hole and buried the treasure. After that, they returned to the boat and the scene faded from the screen. There was a flash of light and the machine began to crumple. Several of the audience were frightened, but Mr. Wendell spoke, "No danger. The machine can last, as I explained, only for one demonstration. Now let us go to the cove and dig for the treasure. Within two hours I will be a millionaire."

With shovels, picks, and spades the entire party walked to the cove. The attorney looked at the professor. "It was authentic wasn't it?" One look at the professor's face and you could see he was deep in meditation. "Suppose we wait until they unearth the treasure," he suggested. "And then I will give you my opinion, if you still want it."

At the cove Mr. Wendell marked off two hundred paces by the simple method of walking the distance. Then he stopped. "Dig here," he ordered. "And we should soon strike the chest."

For half an hour willing hands toiled at the dismal task of digging a hole in sand. Suddenly one of the reporters shouted, "I've struck wood. It must be the chest!" Faster and faster they dug until a large chest with rusty metal bands was unearthed. It was the same chest they had seen on the screen! The sand surrounding it was cleared and finally the heavy chest was lifted from its hiding place.

"Let me open it," said Mr. Wendell and all present were willing that he have the honor. He struck off the rusty lock with a hammer and opened the top of the chest. Diamonds, pearls, rubies, and bars of gold were all there in one big heap. Mr. Wendell put his hand into the chest and came up with many wedding rings. "Captain Kidd probably took them off the women's hands when he captured a ship," commented one of the reporters.

"How much do you think it is all worth?" asked the attorney. Someone replied, "At least fifteen million dollars!" There was a low sound from the throat of Professor Simpson. He edged over to the open treasure box. His eyes were on another group of wedding rings. "Mind if I look at one?" he asked. "Go ahead and help yourself," laughed Mr. Wendell who enjoyed being several times a millionaire.

The professor came up with one wedding ring. He looked inside and handed it to the attorney with several whispered words. The attorney looked at the inside of the ring and he was shocked by what he saw. He handed it to a reporter with a quiet comment.

"What's the matter? Is anything wrong?" demanded Mr. Wendell as he watched the people around him. "Everything is wrong," began the attorney. "How can a ring bearing the writing J. S. to L. M., Feb. 1898 be in Captain Kidd's treasure box? This ring shows the entire set up to be fake." Mr. Wendell went for a gun in his pocket but never made it as several of the reporters got to him first.

It was a week later that a very humble John Williams Reynolds spoke. "Professor just now you are the most famous man in the land. Charles Wendell confessed all. His real name is Kurt Bleiser. He had all that Nazi loot smuggled into this country. He figured out this clever scheme to discover it. What made you suspicious?"

The Professor smiled. "Going back into the past is impossible. He used part of a movie film in his contraption: Captain Kidd was a small man. Yet Mr. Wendell measured off the same number of paces and arrived at the exact position of the 'treasure' even though his steps were much larger than the alleged Captain Kidd's. That meant he knew where the treasure was buried. And, finally, I dropped my mother's wedding ring into the box. It upset Mr. Wendell very much, didn't it?"

Tired of Being Ashamed of Your Build?

LET ME GIVE YOU A NEW HE-MAN BODY!

Charles Atlas

Awarded the title of "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man" in an international contest.

My Secret Method Has Worked for Thousands No Matter How Skinny or Flobby They Were—Now, Why Not Let It Work For You?

HERE'S WHAT I'LL PROVE 15 MINUTES A DAY CAN DO FOR YOU

I DON'T CARE how old or young you are, or how ashamed of your present physical condition you may be. If you can simply raise your arm and flex it I can add SOLID MUSCLE to your biceps—yes, on each arm—in double-quick time! Only 15 minutes a day—right in your own home—is all the time I ask of you! And there's no cost if I fail.

I can broaden your shoulders, strengthen your back, develop your whole muscular system INSIDE and OUTSIDE! I can add inches to your chest, give you a vise-like grip, make those legs of yours lithe and powerful. I can shoot new strength into your old backbone, exercise those inner organs, help you cram your body so full of pep, vigor and red-blooded vitality that you won't feel there's even "standing room" left for weakness and that lazy feeling! Before I get through with you I'll have your whole frame "measured" to a nice, new beautiful suit of muscles!

WHAT'S MY SECRET?

"DYNAMIC TENSION!" That's the ticket! The identical natural method that I myself developed to change my body from the scrawny skinny chested weakling I was at 17 to my present superman physique! Thousands of other fellows are becoming marvelous physical specimens—my way. I give you no gadgets or contraptions to fool with. When you have learned to develop your strength through "Dynamic Tension" you can laugh at artificial muscle-makers. You simply utilize the DORMANT muscle-power in your own God-given body—watch it increase and multiply double-quick into real solid LIVE MUSCLE.

—Henry Nevins, Canada

"I gained 24 lbs. and increased my chest 6 inches!"
—Stanley Lynn, Calif.

"What a difference! Have put 2 1/2 inches on my chest (normal) and 2 1/2 inches expanded."
—F. S., New York

"Gained 28 pounds. When I started your course I weighed only 147. Now I weigh 170."
—T. K., New York
